

Advanced Micronic Devices Limited (AMDL) Brings World-Class Cardiac Care Equipment to India

Introduces Cardiac Science Products for the Indian Market

Mumbai, India | 8 December, 2011: Advanced Micronic Devices Limited's (AMDL) healthcare division – AMDL Health, a leading provider of medical equipment and devices, today announced the launch of Cardiac Science™ family of advanced cardiac diagnostic products in India.

The products are being showcased at the 63rd Annual Conference CSI, Mumbai, 8th - 11th December 2011. This marks AMDL Health's foray into the Indian cardiovascular market. The products to be sold are under the brands of Cardiac Science, Quinton, Burdick, and Powerheart.

“India is the second largest potential cardiovascular market in the world and is expected to reach $589M by 2017,” said Arindam Sen, Chief Executive Officer, AMDL. “We are committed to make technologically advanced devices accessible to the Indian healthcare market.”

AMDL Health plans to target Tier 1 and Tier 2 cities that are changing the landscape of Indian medical equipment industry.

Powerheart automated external defibrillators (AEDs) are easy to use devices that are utilized for emergency treatment of sudden cardiac arrest (SCA). The proven Burdick and Quinton brands bring ECG, stress test systems, Holter monitors and supplies to physicians' offices and hospitals. Quinton QStress® and Burdick ECG products are renowned for their reliability and accuracy.
